

One man!
by Nishaun Smith

There was once a man in a forum who believed all religions could come together. He tried and tried to convince people that we were all the same. Then there came an honorable man. He told the dishonorable one that all religions were not identical nor were they worshipping the same god. He warned that it did not take much intellect to see the major differences between religions. This man of honor warned that asking a person to stop preaching Christianity was like asking a gay to stop being that way. Christians are proud of their Christianity, just as Muslims are proud of their religion and non-straight people have pride in theirs. So the question is, who is interested in undermining what they believe to be true for the sake of unity. The dishonorable one was unable to convince him that he should join his all churches religion. So the dishonorable one failed in his attempt to preach unity with man and disunity with Christ.

The moral of the story is, it was God himself who separated us, we should not seek unity with the men of this world at the expense of unity with Christ. The truth is the one man who rejected the dishonorable one's garbage is a sign of the one remnant that will reject the garbage of the dishonorable antichrist, and the nations who support it. Whether one man or one religion we should be well assured that God will stand with us as the world moves against us.

www.nishaun.com

www.about-god.org

Copyright © 2008 by Nishaun Smith

Feel free to copy do not alter or sell.