

Path

by Nishaun Smith

The path to heaven is the path of Christ.

The path to Christ is a path of recognition. It is very important to figure out what kind of God you recognize. Some relate to a heavenly father who seeks human sacrifice, while others conceive of a God who created this world with the spirit of death and murder, usually referred to as survival of the fittest. Still others can't comprehend why a loving God would respect the male, female relationship which he created. It is very important to understand that only God's sheep hear his voice and seek to follow him, while with all others God's voice is as casting pearls before swine.

The path to Christ is a path of humility, when a person enters into assembly with Christ they should be ready to accept that they are imperfect, better yet a Christian isn't just imperfect it is more truthful to call a Christian, not as bad as the rest. People who are not ready to acknowledge their weaknesses are not ready to acknowledge Christ. What is the point in coming to Christ if you are not weak? You cannot enter into heaven if you feel you are a paradise unto yourself.

The path to Christ is a path of love, love is one of the most misunderstood elements on the planet. It is not a feeling it is an action, maybe it should be said that one cannot be in love, one can only be in a relationship; where loving actions are committed. And vengeful actions are commuted and hateful sentences muted.

The path to Christ is a path of solitude. It you were the only one on this planet who believed in God, what would you do? Christ worshipers should know well that God is the only thing that matters, and it is okay to reject family and friends if they hate God. It is okay to "be ye separate" from even your children if they sing a song of selfishness.

The path to Christ is a path of understanding, did you know we didn't know this, and even now, we still don't get it? God knows the truth is, God only knows! The path of the just grows brighter each day, or the just make the day brighter with God. I think if you read the Bible clearly you will realize that God created science, man created religion. Godliness is the science of life and devilishness is the science of death and hell. Truth is God's gift, only the gifted can hear his voice and follow, amen.
